

LATIN AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN AT NORTHWESTERN
Events around campus, Spring, 2010

- April 7 The Buffett Center Graduate Student Colloquium Presents:
Ricardo Sánchez, Graduate Student, Sociology, Northwestern University:
“Challenging (neo) liberalism in Latin@ America: Constituent Assemblies, Democratization Struggles, and the Epistemological Violence of (post) Coloniality”
6 PM, Buffett Center Conference Room, 1902 Sheridan Road
- April 8 WCAS, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, Asian and Middle-Eastern Studies, and Asian American Studies present:
Nanako Kurihara, filmmaker, “The Grandpa from Brazil” (film screening and discussion with director)
5 PM, University Hall 122
- April 12 The Klopsteg Series of the Program in Science and Human Culture Presents:
Jorge Canizares-Esguerra, History Department, University of Texas at Austin
“Fighting Demons while Crossing the Oceans: The Iberian Roots of British and Dutch Cosmography”
4 PM, University Hall 201
- April 12 The Latin American and Caribbean Studies Colloquium Series Presents:
Claudia López, Journalist and Researcher
“Mafias and Illegal Armed Groups in Colombia”
5:30 PM, Ripton Room, Scott Hall, 602 University Place.
- April 21 The Program in African Studies and the Program in Latin American and Caribbean Studies Present:
Ivana Stolze Lima, Buffett Center Visiting Scholar
“Africa, African Descendants, and their languages in 19th Century Rio de Janeiro”
12 PM, PAS Conference Room, 620 Library Place
- April 23 The Newberry Seminar in Latin American History Presents:
Florencia Mallon, Julieta Kirkwood Professor of History, University of Wisconsin-Madison
“Massacre as Touchstone of Chilean National Narratives: The Case of Ránquil, 1934 to Present”
2:30 PM, Newberry Library, 60 W. Walton St, Chicago
- April 26 The Klopsteg Series of the Program in Science and Human Culture Presents:
Michelle Molina, Religious Studies Department, Northwestern

“Circulations: Heart and Science in the Catholic Atlantic World”

4 PM, University Hall 201

April 29-30th Gender Studies, WCAS, Sociology, Latino and Latina Studies, Latin American and Caribbean Studies, and Asian American Studies, and the Colloquium on Ethnicity and Diaspora Present:

“Translocations: Travel, Migration, and Sexuality” (Conference)

For a schedule and more information, contact Emily Gilbert, (gender@northwestern.edu), Héctor Carrillo (hector@northwestern.edu) or Steven Epstein (s-epstein@northwestern.edu)

April 30 The Buffett Center Faculty and Fellows Colloquium Presents:

Doris Garraway, French and Italian, Northwestern

“After the Revolution: Problems of Writing in Post-Revolutionary Haiti”

12 PM, Buffett Center Conference Room, 1902 Sheridan

May 3 The Klopsteg Series of the Program in Science and Human Culture Presents:

Cori Hayden, Anthropology, UC Berkeley

“Generic Specificities: Pharmaceutical access and the Making of New Same Things”

4 PM, University Hall 201

May 12 Northwestern’s Latin American and Caribbean Studies Colloquium Presents:

Mneesha Gellman, Graduate Student, Political Science, Northwestern

“Political Participation After Violence: Examining the Role of Memory in Contemporary El Salvador”

4 PM, Location TBA

May 17 The Klopsteg Series of the Program in Science and Human Culture Presents:

Kristin Ruggiero, History Department, University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee

“Foreign Contagion and Honor in Late 19th and Early 20th Century Buenos Aires,”

4 PM, University Hall 201

May 19 Northwestern’s Latin American and Caribbean Studies Colloquium Presents:

Jorge Coronado, Department of Spanish and Portuguese, Northwestern

“Picturing the Everyday: Photographic Practices in Cusco, 1910-1950”

4 PM, Buffett Center Conference Room, 1902 Sheridan Road

May 24 Northwestern’s Latin American and Caribbean Studies Colloquium Presents:

David Lida, Journalist and author of “First Stop in the New World: Mexico City, The Capital of the 21st Century”

4 PM, Buffett Center Conference Room, 1902 Sheridan Road

May 28 The Comparative-Historical Social Science Group Presents:
Ed Gibson, Political Science, Northwestern University
Title TBA
3 PM, Buffett Center Conference Room, 1902 Sheridan Road

June 2 Northwestern's Latin American and Caribbean Studies Colloquium Presents:
Carlos Cañas-Dinarte, Salvadoran Historian and Visiting Researcher at the Newberry Library, Title TBA
4 PM, Buffett Center Conference Room, 1902 Sheridan Road

June 3 The Program in Art History Presents:
Carolyn Dean, U of C, Santa Cruz
"Masonry Matters: Meaning in Inka Stonework,"
5 PM, Pick-Laudati Auditorium